Cowley and its Neighborhood.

H. R. Parker made a business trip to Blaurock on Tuesday.

F. W. Doubt, of Mountain Mill, came to town on Tuesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Powlett are spending a month with friends at Wapella, Sask.

For want of snow, lumbering operations at South Fork hills had to be suspended.

Mrs. W. G. Askey and children arrived from Pincher Creek last week and have taken up residence here.

A meeting of the Local Improvement Council took place in the office of Tweedy Bros. on Tuesday night last.

Mr. Carney has decided to erect a boarding house on Ward Street, and already material is being placed on the spot.

Grasshoppers jumping over the prairie on the 20th day of January should be a good-enough advertisement for this section of the country.

All the steel has now arrived for the new bridge, and Mr. Jordan promises that the bridge will be completed over the North Fork within a month.

The Cowley Club appears to be accomplishing the work intended for it, and the promoter, Rev. Mr. Mowat, is to be congratulated on his enterprise.

Mr. Matheson, the general clerk of the Union Bank, has tendered his resignation to that institution, and rumors has it that he will enter into the journalistic field.

During last evening in this district, it is quite a while since such operations were conducted here in the last week of January, it speaks well for our Southern Alberta weather.

It is rumored that a hotel to replace the Allegro, recently destroyed by fire, will be erected shortly on Front Street. T. W. Davies, contractor, of Crowsnest, was in town Monday morning over the grounds.

A real estate deal of considerable size was put through by D. R. McIvor last week, when the farms of John and Daniel McRitchie were sold to Mr. M. Jordan, the consideration being in the neighborhood of $7,000.

A grand social was given by the ladies of St. Aiden's congregation after the opening services on Wednesday evening. Large numbers from outlying sections, who had come to town for the opening functions, remained to share in the after event. Refreshments were served during the evening and musical selections and a dainty oyster supper took a foremost place in the programme.

The new church of St. Aiden was formally opened and dedicated on Wednesday evening. The service was conducted by the Lord Bishop of Calgary, assisted by several clergy of the diocese. A large congregation was present at the opening ceremonies, which commenced at 7:30 p.m. At the close of the delicate ceremony His Lordship administered the Laying of Hands, when a large number received the Sacrament of Confirmation.

Northern France is devastated by terrible floods and even the streets of Paris are flooded.

FORGED BY CIRCUMSTANCES

With this issue of the "Chronicle" we joint and severally do continue the publication of our paper for some months, believing that in that time it will be more opportune for the continuation of a local paper. As business has been severely quiet and through an unfortunate set-back through fire we deem it best that unnecessary work should not be done while the town is passing through its embryonic state.

It has been our great pleasure to reside in your midst for some time and in that time we have made many lasting and helpful friendships that cannot but leave a good impression. Your editor, although he will be promoted to the assistant editorship at Coleman, will strive to make it his duty to carry Cowley's history with that of the foremost towns of the Pass. We hope for a continuance of your printing and go well. In conclusion we would say that the Miner will be sent to every paid-up subscriber of the Chronicle.

ASQUITH RETURNED

The elections in the British Isles have resulted in the return of the Asquith government with a reduced majority.

The nation's gratifying victory of beliefs of democratic government.

The result is damning to the hereditary principle. A man can no more be born a statesman than he can a lawyer.

To some minds the present struggle between the lords and the commons has been a struggle that has a bloody precedent in the French revolution of 1789. The underlying principle of that struggle was extortion practised by the barons in regard to the land. Examining today the underlying principle of the budget and asking why the lords are opposing it, mainly on the increment tax on the land. A victory for the liberals to-day is a quiet, and peaceful victory for the common people who have had in the past to pay for the music that lingers in the retreating walls of the so-called "lords of the land."

DEVELOPMENT

To some men spiritual development is everything in this world, to other men intellectual development is the unsatisfied desire, while to others physical development holds them in such sway that the starved mind becomes inert and beheaded to the aesthetic things of this life.

No man should stand before an audience and claim for one and only one. That all are conducive to living a more perfect and better and useful life is certain. The great Master demands of us "our best, and without spiritual, mental and physical development we fail to render the best that is in us.

Sermons have been preached alluding to only one development and such sermons must fail in their appeal.

Some have argued that "our physical" development is the basis for the development of our mental and spiritual faculties, and if so our mental and spiritual faculties must be great importance in the great hereafter. A spiritual development without the mental must be narrowed and incomplete. And so with the reverse. Simultaneous development should be the text.

OUR EXPORT MARKET IN BARLEY

The attention of the progressive farmer to-day is not centered entirely on the producing end of his business; the marketing of his produce is also being studied. He is on the look-out for new markets and is alive to the advantage of studying them and finding out their wants. The development of our export market in barley has, however, been overlooked.

As yet we have not familiarized ourselves with it and learned just what it wants. We knew we had a very small foreign trade in barley, but we have never stopped to figure out why. The reason is not far to seek. Six-rowed type of barley is grown, the only foreign demand for which is a messenger who needs it. For further particulars apply to P. O. Box 2497, Cowley.

For a distance the train pulled on then I felt the air brakes applied, pulling up, and directly we were going down on the other side of the bridge. I jumped off and directly the second car hit the bridge. It struck an up-right of the bridge and started to capsize. The first part remained on the bridge and burned, while the second half leaped into the stream, as did the other two coaches behind it. One half of the broken car took its victims with it. Those in the first half were burned to death. Those in the second half were drowned. Directly on jumping from the train I looked about to render some assistance. There were then only two women to be seen. I could not see anyone but the two women on our side of the river. Later we were joined by three men who were engaged in bridge construction, and we five worked and did all we could for five hours before assistance reached us.

Sault Ste. Marie, Jan. 27.—Wm. Daniels of Ottawa, mail clerk on the ill-fated train, tells the following story:

"We left Nain Centre at 12.31 and nothing unusual was noticed until we reached the village at 8 o'clock in evening. When about half a train's length from the bridge I felt the train jolted in a very rugged manner behind and I knew that the train was off the track.

MISS JEANNE RUSSELL

In "The Little Minister" at the opera house tomorrow night!

The "Lion and the mouse" which was played last Friday night by the Summers Stock Company, was well put on and brought forth much applause from the audience. Miss Stevenson, the leading lady, proved a strong character and won the sympathy of all. The next appearance will be greeted by a larger audience still.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE,
SATURDAY, JANUARY 29.

Miss Jeanne Russell and the greatly augmented Jeanne Russell Co. offer "The Little Minister", J. M. Barrie's greatest Scotch creation—the leader of the best in Scottish comedy drama.

The Jeanne Russell Co. now carry sixteen artists and present only the latest eastern repertoire successes, also elaborate scenery for which they are already famous, and are conceded to be the most thoroughly equipped company and second to none of any company playing throughout the Dominion.

The offering here "The Little Minister" is one of the best attractions offered by the Russell company and presents an opportunity of seeing practically the entire company at their best. The scenes will be laid in Scotland, will present an elaborate stage setting, the best ever seen on the local stage and the most stupendous production ever offered here.

A special musical program of Auld Scotch airs, etc., has been arranged by the Jeanne Russell Peerless Orchestra and the specialties to be offered are the best and most amusing. Also dancing and operatic songs.

The grand chorus by the entire company is an attractive feature and will no doubt be well received.

Come awa' doon, and ye'll ha a gey guid nicht wi' the auld Scotch play, the auld Scotch sangs, and the guid auld Scotch tongue.

A Few of our Souvenirs remain. 25c. each.

"THE GREAT DIVIDE"

This is a play that deals with life in Arizona in the early days. The Johnson family have a grant on a tract of land in Arizona and Ruth Johnson and her brother, Phillip, go out to work and everything is progressing favorably. Phillip's wife comes out from the east and is accompanied by Whitethorn Newberry, a young doctor who is in love with Ruth. The first act opens in the house on the ranch with all these people on the scene and happy William's wife, Polly, just preparing to leave and it has been arranged that Phillip is to return home with her in his return bring back some stones that are needed. They have however, up call to attend a son, parishes who has broken his leg. This leaves Ruth alone in the house. Shortly after this Stephen, Ghent, Pedro and Dutch, three desperados, appear on the scene drunk, and here starts one of the most dramatic scenes on record. Stranger than the gift of the Golden West, Dutch and Pedro commence to shake dice for her and in order to save themselves they ask Stephen to save her and they all sit down to a game of cards. Miss Stevenson is an actress of long experience but she conveys that this one of the most pathetic that she has ever handled.

The last act is in Boston. Ruth has become a mother. Her "husband" arrives and pleads with her for another chance. The play abounds in dramatic situations in the full of action and feeling.

Miss Stevenson as Ruth does not give a splendid performance as her personality and talents are especially suited to the demands of the stage. Miss Stevenson is an actress of long experience but she conveys that this one of the most pathos-tic that she has ever handled.

The above play will be presented by the Summers Stock Co. at the Cole- man Opera House on Thursday, Feb.

3rd, when they will open a three nights' engagement. Price $1.00 and 75c at Webb's drug store.
